C U L T U R E

Tianjin is a provincial level municipality of China, ranking the third largest urban land area after Beijing and Shanghai. It is the only city in China that has the exact record of city construction. With a history of more than 600 years, Tianjin created a uniquely compatible urban style, Chinese and Western, ancient and modern. Tianjin is a cultural city with many different folk customs such as Xiangsheng, a popular form of entertainment similar to comedy, and Yangliuqing colourful wash painting, a form of traditional-style woodcut painting.

HISTORY & NATURAL

Tianjin is the fourth largest in China, after Shanghai, Beijing, and Guangzhou. In terms of administrative area population, Tianjin ranks fifth in Mainland China. The walled city of Tianjin was built in 1404. As a treaty port since 1860, Tianjin has been a major seaport and gateway to Beijing. During the Boxer Rebellion the city was the seat of the Tianjin Provisional Government. Under the Qing dynasty and the Republic of China, Tianjin became one of the largest cities in the region. At that time, numerous European-style buildings and mansions were constructed in concessions, many of which are well-preserved today.

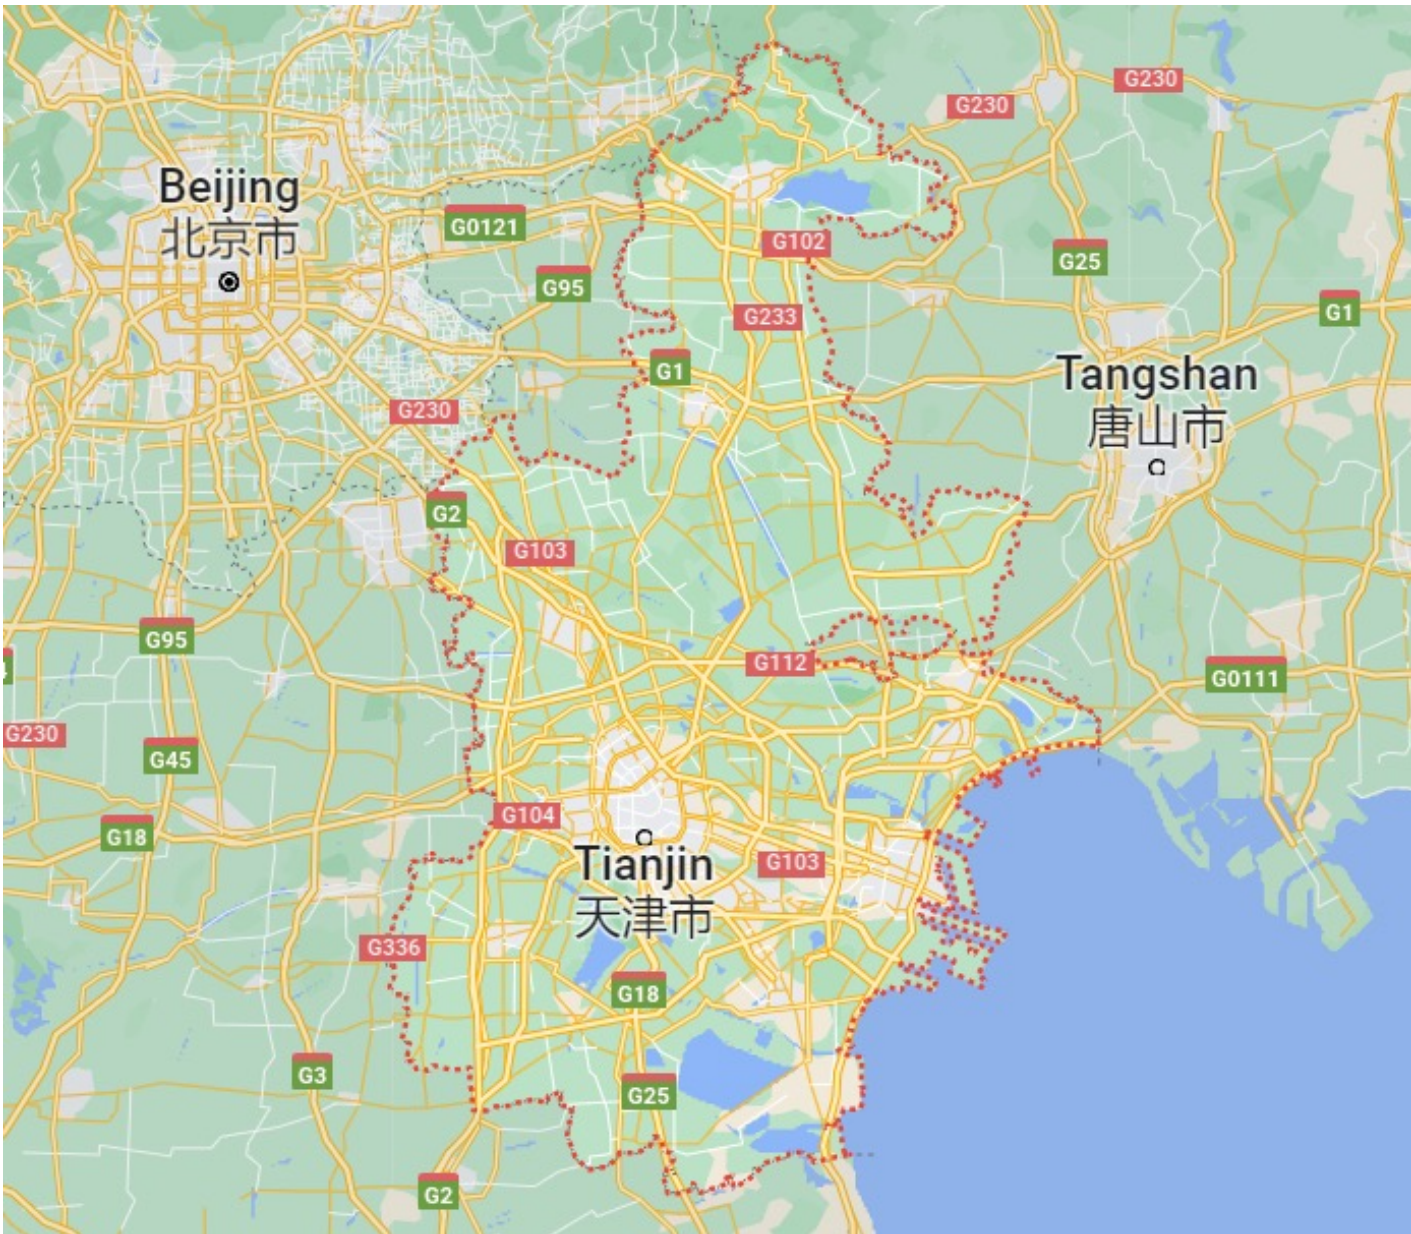

C U I S I N E

Tianjin is derived from the native cooking styles of Tianjin Municipality, a metropolis along the coast of northern China. It is heavily influenced by Beijing cuisine, due to its proximity, but differs by being sweeter, and more heavy focused on seafood. Tianjin Food Street is a place where cross-cultural Chinese dishes can be sampled.

Popular dishes include Eight Great Bowls, Four Great Stews, Tianjing goubuli, and guifaxiang mahua, among others. Eight Great Bowls is a combination of eight mainly meat dishes. It can be further classified into several varieties, including the rough, smooth, and high.

ATTRACTIVE

Tianjin has its own distinct character that makes it stand out from any other Chinese metropolis. Thousands of colonial buildings from the 19th and early 20th-century foreign powers, along with multiple relics from centuries of traditional Chinese culture, are either still intact or have been recreated.

The Century Clock

The Century Clock is right off the Haihe River and is visible from the Tianjin Train Station. This will likely be the first, or last, Tianjin attraction you will see while visiting. Each zodiac sign is represented alongside a numeral.

Tianjin Eye

The most noted attraction in Tianjin, the Tianjin Eye is the only Ferris Wheel in the world to be atop a bridge. Lines don't take too long, and the views are unrivaled. Make sure to go on a clear day.

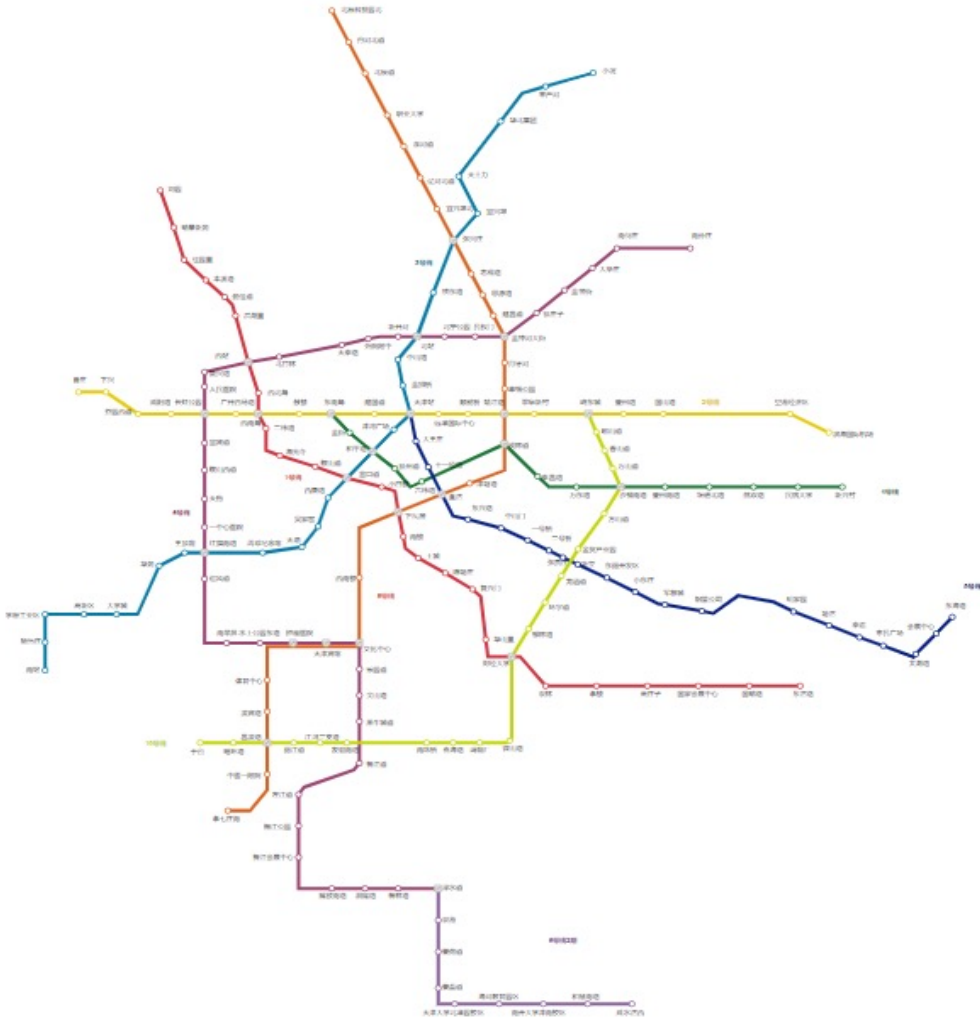

Italian-Style Town

The former Italian concession was revamped just last decade after generations of inactivity. Find authentic Italian food and cultural exports in this radiant town, along with other options in European fine dining, nightclubs, and boutique shops.

Haihe Cultural Square

A skyline that is impossible to miss, Haihe Cultural Square illuminates incredibly well at night. Pass this backdrop while cruising down the river and take a few photos along the way.
